Dear [REDACTED]

Enjoyed your visit of last week and the opportunity to renew our association. Regretedly, our time to discuss matters of particular interest to me; i.e., finance, budget, etc., was necessarily shortened by your full schedule.

I have been attempting a fundamental analysis of your Fiscal Year 1964 and 1965 budget estimates submission, trying to apply, as nearly as I could recall them, your comments and explanations on this subject. Having little success in this exercise, I am now inclined to await your promised letter wherein you would explain the various factors employed in arriving at the estimate figures shown in your budget presentation.

As soon as possible after the conclusion of the pending Congressional budget hearings and at your convenience, I intend to get up to [REDACTED]. In the meantime, your letter should be very helpful in understanding the mechanics used in arriving at your budget computations.

Sincerely,

Frank M.
